

Confucius Institute HUJI, Department of Asian Studies, Department of Religious Studies, Glorison
Foundation, The Frieberg Center for East Asian Studies
Cordially invite you to the seminar:

Buddhism in China Today

Tuesday, 31 May, 16:30-18:00 (gathering: 16:10)
Beit Maierdorf, Room 502

China is often perceived as an “atheist” country. Nonetheless, religions play an important role in China’s social, cultural, and intellectual life. Our colloquium will focus on multiple faces of Buddhism in China--from its impact on devoted novices, to its religious manifestations in urban and rural societies, to its ongoing intellectual appeal.

Ms. Tan Yingxian, Hebrew University

The Transcendental Power of A Village Monk: Reflections on My Five-Year Retreat

Dr. Ian MacCormack, Hebrew University

From Sakya Pandita to Marx: Chabpel Tsheten Phuntsok (恰白次旦平措), an intellectual in China's Tibet

Dr. Shen Yang, Hebrew University

Sticks Divination in Chinese Buddhist Temples

Prof. Meir Shahar, Tel Aviv University

Buddhism and Chinese Village Religion

Confucius Institute
The Hebrew University of Jerusalem

החוג ללימודי אסיה
Department of Asian Studies

מרכז פריברג ללימודי מזרח אסיה
The Louis Frieberg Center for East Asian Studies